TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 8, 1864.

Indian Affairs.

We observe in some of the Eastern Administration papers, very sharp and unfriendly comments upon the management of the Indian Affairs of the Government. The expense is so enormous, and the corruption alleged is so gross, that Congress has instituted an investigation, which we hope will be productive of benefit, and open a way for some effective remedy. We have no idea, however, that the business of this Department is in any degree worse managed than it has heretofore been; indeed it is impossible to conceive how it could be, for since we have been able to notice the system, we have been astonished not so much that some men can get rich so easily, but that with opportunities offered, a vastly greater sum is not annually filched from the Government on false vouchers, and by means of the numberless devices, for which Indian agencies are famous. We have known men on salaries of less than three thousand dollars, to lay up thirty thousand in five years; we never in Democratic times, knew one to leave an office poor, and we have noticed that several manage to keep a good thing without regard to politics. They are Indian agency men under any administration, and wisely, speak well of any party which employs them. Perhaps we should qualify this somewhat, as a friend by the way of proving to us the sort of men entrusted with honors by a Republican Administration has handed us the following copy of a letter written by a person who has recently been, if he is not now in the employ of the Indian Department. It is dated January 24th:

> "No news here. The Democrats are all united against the Administration, and the prospects are, we will clean them out at the next election. All I have to say is, damn such an Administration and such a party. Such a set of thieves never yet got possession of the Government. Their programme is the abolition of slavery and colonization in the Southern States—driving out the Southern men, giving their lands to niggers, with Yankee overseers, and they cry, the Union and the Constitution! To hell with all such Union men. If the country is ruined, it will be ruined by abolitionists and secession, but I think the Union loving, conservative Democracy will yet save the nation. So mote it be."

Comment upon such a production is needless. The writer was a Democrat,—his professions of Union sentiment secured him a profitable position, and while occupying it, as we are informed, he expressed his real sentiments in the above accomplished, refined and patriotic style. While we are sure that some of our officers in the Indian Department scorn and despise such doctrines, it is a foul and burning shame that any one who does adopt and express them, should be patronized or tolerated any where save in private life or in a guard house.

GOOD INDICATIONS.—The resolutions adopted in several precincts in the counties in this part of the State, are cheering proofs that the people are right, and in their primary meetings are not afraid to speak out boldly in denunciation of the rebellion and its infernal cause. For some strange reason, a few weeks ago, an impression seemed to prevail that it would not do in Oregon to be plain spoken and decided in support of the Emancipation Proclamation, or in opposition to slavery as the primal source and nurse of treason. It was said that such action would cost too many votes, and the wiser policy was declared to be to go along easily, and simply to say we must support the Government, in all constitutional measures for the suppression of the rebellion. We did not believe this, for we have never met a loyal man, who had the slightest reluctance or hesitation in declaring most decidedly his utter and unqualified hostility to the infamous plot of Southern slave holders and their Nothern democratic allies, and his earnest anxiety to remove forever from the land all traces of the institution which has made the war and all its attendant horrors and sacrifices. Such a sentiment, so generally existing, was sure to find expression at the earliest opportunity and it is certain to gather force and volume during the canvass to such a degree that its resistless current will bear down and overwhelm all opposition. The politicians are mistaken in supposing that the people are not vigilantly alive to the pressing responsibilities of the hour: they will be mistaken if they imagine that they can silence and overcome the thrilling, earnest and widely spread determination to strike a blow for freedom, vigorous and effectual, now that slavery has, by its own nefarious treason, lost all constitutional protection, and exposed itself to destruction as the enemy of the Republic.

"BEAST" BUTLER having failed to take Richmond by his late raid, has settled down quietly at Fortress Monroe and opened a school for negroes. He's found his level.—Democrat.

And if the editor of the Democrat will go to that school, he will find his level, for if Ben. Butler cannot bring him up to the negro standard, nobody can.

INDIAN POLICY.—Bishop Whipple of Minnesota says:—"In Canada there has never been an Indian massacre or an Indian war. They spend a hundredth part in preventing what we spend in suppressing Indian outbreaks. Their missions are prospered and ours are blasted—they live in peace and we live in perpetual strife."

This is a sad but truthful statement. It is a fitting commentary upon our Indian policy, which is a disgrace to the nation and humanity.—Pacific.

THE CURRENCY.—We ask attention to the following communication of an intelligent correspondent, whose views will find many supporters. The conclusion of his article, "considering greenbacks commercially and practically," will be published to-morrow.

GREENBACKS LEGALLY CONSIDERED.

Are money. The several Acts of Congress under which they are issued, declare that "such notes shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, internal duties, excises, debts and demands of every kind due to the United States, except duties on imports, and of all claims and demands against the United States of every kind whatsoever, except for interest on bonds and notes, which shall be paid in coin, and shall also be lawful money, and a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, within the United States, except duties on imports and interest as aforesaid."

It is said will be judicially settled that Congress had power to make this enactment, and that it is the law of the land. But questions are raised respecting its meaning. It has been suggested that the notes are made legal tender for debts only, which are dues arising out of contracts, express or implied; that taxes are compulsory exactions, and not debts, and so are not payable in these notes. It has been replied that taxes do not arise from contracts, since every one is born in the implied agreement to pay his share of the expenses of the community of which he is a member. It might be further answered that the idea of contract does not enter into the meaning of the word debt, neither in the popular nor the legal sense, nor the sense in which it is used in this law. The popular meaning is defined by Webster: "That which is due from one to another; and due means owed, or that ought to be paid or done to another; and owed means indebted or obliged or bound to pay." Here is no trace of the idea of contract or other source of the liability. It consists simply of the liability to pay. The legal meaning is the same, only adding the idea of a determinate sum. If the amount is fixed, or may be found by calculation, and there is a liability to pay it, then, regardless of its origin or creating cause, it is, in law, a debt. It is not a technical term, and Congress is presumed to have used it in the popular sense, which makes the notes a legal tender for every legal liability to pay. That they used it in this or in some sense that includes taxes, is further proved by their excepting a particular tax: which implies that taxes not excepted are included.

But legal tender are not the only words used to bestow on these notes their legal character. They are declared to be lawful money. Both expressions may have been used to express the same idea. But the latter defines the quality in a way to preclude uncertainty. Lawful money is that which the law considers money. Hitherto, certain coins alone were money. Now, these bills are invested with the same legal character. They are, therefore, dollar for dollar, of the same value as these coins, in the eye of the law. The law knows no difference between a ten dollar greenback and a gold eagle. To a Court, looking at them with the eyes of the law, they appear identically alike, and cannot be distinguished, the one from the other, except in the two cases which the law excepts. The Judge who sees a difference in any other case, uses his natural eyes and not the law's.

The right has been claimed for States and cities to prescribe the kind of money they will receive. Congress has not exempted political corporations from the operations of the act. "Debts, public and private," are debts which the public owe in their corporate capacity, and which individuals owe, in their private capacity. The debt of the public may be due to an individual or to another public. The debt of the individual may be due to the public or to another individual. To whom the debt is due is immaterial. All debts, to whomsoever due, are expressly made payable with these notes. The plain words and equally plain meaning of the law cannot be satisfied without including debts due to the public, whether a State, a county, a city, or a school district; for every such debt is either a public debt, due from a political corporation, or a private debt, due from a natural person or private corporation. If Congress sets apart two debts to be paid in coin, and makes all others payable in bills, and a State or city declares that one of those others shall not be paid in bills, the two conflict. If Congress has power to do this, the State or city cannot have power to undo it. If Congress has power to declare what shall and shall not be lawful dollars, then every person, natural and artificial, claiming dollars from another, must take such dollars as Congress has created. The right to insist on a particular kind of dollars for a particular debt, is inconsistent with the power of Congress to make another kind of dollars a legal tender for that debt. True, the right of the State is not expressly taken away by the Constitution; but it is impliedly, if the supposed power is impliedly given to Congress.

But the State has made no such attempt to nullify the Act of Congress. Its law requiring county treasurers to pay over the State's share of the taxes "in gold and silver coin," was passed many years before, when nothing else was money, and when those words were equivalent to lawful money. The only other thing which county treasurers could turn over to the State was the State's own paper. It was not intended to discriminate between coin and other money, for there was no other, but between money and State Treasury warrants. The Legislature says to the county treasurers: "Give us our money, gentlemen, and not buy up our paper. We will appropriate our funds to such objects and in such order as we choose." When the provision brings "lawful money" into the Treasury its function ceases. To assume a hostile attitude towards the Federal authority, was never contemplated by the law-makers.

SOMETHING HURTS THEM.—The Democratic papers are so very bitter in their abuse of Judge Williams and Mr. Pearne, that we are pretty well satisfied that these eloquent speakers have built a fire under the Democratic sanctums, which is likely to consume the allies of treason in Linn and Lane counties. We hope so, and we hope that these same able defenders of the Union cause will not allow the fire to go out, but will fan and increase it, till the conflagration completely sweeps the State, and leaves nothing but ashes to show where rebellion had its sympathizing headquarters. If these gentlemen amount to nothing, and produce no effect, what is the use of growling so furiously at them? If their arguments are so frivolous and absurd, why is it necessary to care for them? We are compelled to believe by the very agony of resistance, that somebody is severely hurt—the Democracy is badly wounded and feels that it must die, or if not, that it must live such a mean and worthless existence, that it is vexed and ashamed at the dirty prospect.

A NEW ISSUE.—We observe in several of the counties a strong inclination to make the question of the manner of paying taxes a plank in the political platform. How the thing is to be constructed or managed, we do not exactly see, as the courts seem disposed to take the matter out of the political arena on constitutional grounds. Whether it is proposed to reform the courts, or to elect the legislature upon the issue does not appear, but if there was no other question before the voters of the States, we have no doubt that the result would be as unanimous, as it could be upon any which could be submitted. Every body seems to think that taxes ought to be paid in currency, and we presume that hardly any one would object to raising the salaries of public officers, so that they should not suffer by being compelled to receive them in greenbacks.

One of the latest stories of Mr. Lincoln is of his interview with a delegation of ministers. It is not reported that they had much to say when admitted to the presence, but, in taking leave, one of them remarked he "hoped the Lord was on our side." "I don't agree with you." Of course they looked amazed. "I hope, indeed, that we are on the Lord's side!"

Gen. Scott's Opinion on the War.

Gen. Scott kept open house on New Year's. He has broken up housekeeping, and has rooms at Delmonico's, in the elegant mansion of Moses H. Grinnell, corner of Fifth avenue and Fourteenth street, with several spacious houses added to it; Delmonico has his up-town establishment. In a suit of parlors on the lower floor, furnished in a style suited to his rank, Gen. Scott has his headquarters. His rooms are such as a military gentleman of position and fortune would desire. They are ornamented with busts, statues, maps, paintings and implements of war. His daughter lives near him and her children, intelligent and sprightly, may be seen running about the room, climbing his knees for a kiss or a smile or a kind word, and throwing a halo of youth and pleasure over the home and declining years of the invalid hero. Gen. Scott is a great favorite of the ladies. Every day rare and fresh flowers are laid by their hand on his table, filling the room with exquisite sweetness. Fruits of all kinds are sent to him daily, and of these attentions he is especially proud, and makes particular mention of them to all familiar friends who visit him.

His bodily health is not firm. Five years ago he met with an accident that affected his spine, since which time he has not been able to sit on his horse. Indeed, he has not been on a horse but once since the accident, and then he was helped on and only remaining but a few minutes that his portrait might be painted. He seldom leaves his rooms, and walks about it with great difficulty; but his mind is just as clear as when his cannons peaked along our frontiers in the war of 1812. He is well posted in all the acts of the Government and of the army. He reads everything that relates to our National peril, has his own decided opinions of movements and of men, and expresses himself without the veil of secrecy or reserve, about the war, its duration and termination, the courage and skill of our generals, and the obstacles that still lie in our path.

I had an interview with him a short time since of about an hour's duration. He did not regard the future prospects as very bright. Indeed he said he did not see one bright spot in our national horizon. One thing he thought very remarkable—no war of any magnitude had ever been prosecuted anywhere before this one without throwing to the surface men of marked military genius and marked public virtue. But this war had been fruitful of no such result so far. Those who had inspired a momentary confidence had disappointed the public expectation. We have had some splendid fighting, but with no marked results. Our generals seem to have no ability to reap the fruits of well-fought battles. To fight the enemy, to gain a decisive victory and then let him escape with his men, guns and baggage, is simply to make the war endless. He considered the President's amnesty proclamation as impracticable, in consequence of the large number of persons exempted from the hope of pardon. These would be made desperate and fight to the last. If the large number exempted from pardon were in the hands of the President to-day, and under lock and key, so that he could, if he would, march them out to death, he could not execute that larger number. Humanity and civilization would revolt at it. In the judgment of Gen. Scott it would be better to offer pardon to the great mass of the rebels and reserve severe punishment for the leaders only. More than a year ago Gen. Scott supposed that Charleston and Richmond would both be taken, and taken at once. He not only expected it, but had never seen any explanation or reason why it was not done. Confident of that result, he sent to the President a plan for the settlement of the difficulty, North and South. A basis for the reconstruction of the Union was sent in. It was made the subject of one or more Cabinet meetings; and Gen. Scott is confident that when the war is over, the plan will form substantially the basis of a final settlement.

Of Gen. McClellan's military career, Gen. Scott declines to speak—first, because he recommended him for the position of Commander-in-Chief, and because a court-martial is to be called, and as he may be one of the Judges, he does not wish to prejudge the case. I could not understand whether Gen. McClellan desired the court-martial, or whether it was to be ordered by the Government. He was clearly disappointed that Richmond was not taken, but whether it was the fault of Gen. McClellan, Gen. McDowell or the interference of the Government, Gen. Scott declined to give an opinion. Generals Burnside, Hooker, and other commanders of that stamp, he regarded as loyal men, brave men, good division commanders, but wholly incompetent to plan or execute a military campaign.

Of Gen. Grant he expressed himself surprised and delighted. He said he knew Gen. Grant in the war with Mexico, where he was a Lieutenant and had no opportunity to distinguish himself. So far, Gen. Grant had proved himself the hero of the war—fighting great battles with consummate skill and securing the results. And so far he seemed to be the only General that knew how to do it. While he does not think this war will be a seven years war; yet neither this year, nor the next, in his opinion, will see its end. Much hard fighting is to be done before the rebellion will cease. Great and grave questions of anxiety and trouble will arise and run on, and vex the nation beyond the lifetime of this generation. But the Union will be preserved, the National life perpetuated, and the United States will come out of this terrible baptism of blood with renewed life and strength to bless the coming generations.

Such is the substance of an hour's conversation with the old hero. And as his opinions are of value at the present time, and were given with no reserve or wish that they should not be made public, I presume your readers will be pleased to hear from the General.—N. Y. Cor. Boston Journal, Jan. 12.

VALLANDIGHAM BEGGING FOR MONEY.—The Chicago Tribune is rather hard on Vallandigham, and has a pungent way of saying things. Its issue of the 18th January contains the following:

> The representative man of the Ohio Secesh having run short of funds, and being sorely pressed by an unfeeling Canadian landlord for a large deficit in whisky and grub, his next friend, citizen Samuel Medary, has made a pathetic appeal to his fellow Copperheads for donations to relieve the distress of the "Martyr Exile." He has circulated subscription papers over the State, calling for ten cent subscriptions. The amount required from each Copperhead is very suggestive—being the usual price of a "swig" of the "Spirit of Democracy." If the appeal had been made for money to buy bread or clothes, it would have been little heeded and feebly responded to, but when it is made known to the faithful that their "Great Exile" is awful thirsty, and has not the little "greenbacks" with which to relieve it, they are touched in a tender spot. The bowels of their compassion are at once moved for his sad condition, and they shell out their dimes freely. It is announced that $171 00 have already been collected and forwarded by express to the impoverished provincial publican to apply on account, accompanied with the assurance that more is coming, and he is earnestly requested to withdraw the stopple from his decanter, and allow the suffering martyr to slack his thirst. Anything before the horrors of drought. War, pestilence and famine are not equal to it. The natural beverage of a Copperhead is not nasty cold water, sluggish beer, or insipid wine, but is the juice een mayle vulgarly called corn. To be told that a brother Copperhead is deprived of this primal necessary of life, is to arouse his sympathies and open his wallet for the instant relief of the sufferer. We understand that "dime relief" books are to be opened at the office of the Secesh concern in this city, where ten cent donations will be received to the thirst "fund." It is also promised to make a National appeal in the same behalf, to all good Copperheads. Why not? Have not the loyal people their Sanitary Commission for the relief and comfort of their soldiers? and shall not the disloyal have a Sanitary Commission for the relief and comfort of their martyr exile? Pass around the hat.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN.

Dates to March 5th.

More Particulars of Kilpatrick's Expedition.

Why the Objects of the Expedition were not accomplished.

SHERMAN'S CORPS RETURNING TO JACKSON.

All the Railroads in his reach Utterly Destroyed.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The President has received a dispatch from Kilpatrick, dated Yorktown, 4th, which says: Colonel Dahlgren was directed to make a diversion with 500 men on James river. He attacked the enemy on Tuesday and drove them on Richmond. The main force having fallen back, Colonel Dahlgren attempted to rejoin me. He and Col. Cook were with the advance guard which became separated from the main force which reached here with slight loss. Gen. Butler adds that a rebel deserter informed one of his aids that a rebel Colonel and about 100 men were taken prisoners. It is assigned as a reason for the unusual alertness of the rebels in preparing to repel Kilpatrick, that the destruction of the track of the Virginia Central Railroad was communicated to Richmond by Gen Lee immediately after the occurrence, by sending a dispatch over the telegraph line between Richmond, Lynchburg and Gordonsville. This seems highly probable, from the fact that the expedition passed through Lee's pickets and beyond his rear, without skirmish, and was met some distance from Richmond by a formidable force of mounted infantry.

CAIRO, March 5.—A letter received from Vicksburg via Memphis, dated February 27th, says: The 17th Army Corps has fallen back to Jackson, where it is expected to remain for the present. Sherman, with the remainder of his force, is en route for the same place. All the railroads on Sherman's route are utterly destroyed.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The World's Washington dispatch says: It is understood that Halleck will retain his present position, and that Grant will remain in the field.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—In sixty-two cases against steamship Moses Taylor for violation of passenger contract, judgment has been given for plaintiff in each case.

Suit of Merris against Cheesman to recover money deposited in mint by Magruder, murderers, is discontinued.

Special policeman Vanness, has received intelligence of a legacy of fifty thousand dollars left him by will of Chas. B. Egerson, lately deceased in Liverpool. Egerson fell over board from wharf in 1850 and was rescued by this officer, who periled his own life and refused reward.

Rumors about buildings being damaged by earthquake are unfounded.

Bark Young Hector, 19 days from Sandwich Islands brings Honolulu dates of February 13th. Whale ship Congress had arrived from the Marquesas. On her passage out, she was set fire by the crew and lost all her fresh water. While at the Marquesas, the first officer was captured by natives, stripped naked and would have been eaten but for the interference of a native Hawaian Missionary.

The small crater—summit of Mauna Loa—has recently been emitting flames and smoke.

LATEST.

MARYSVILLE, March 7.

No Eastern news to-night. The weather continues very dry, and in consequence there is a prospect of a failure of the spring crops.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—There is a marked advance of staples of all kinds.

A private telegram to commercial house here says Congress has passed no act providing for the withdrawal of goods in bond for home consumption and sale of the year now expired.

Arrived—British bark Charlotte Andrews, 72 days from Australia. Ship Benalty, 20 days from China.

The steamer American, is overdue from Panama; delay supposed to be caused by her being heavily loaded or detention at some port.

WHAT WE HAVE WON BACK.—The three States of Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee, the people of which are now preparing to re-establish civil Government as free States and within the Union, have an area of 139,023 square miles—a territory a third greater in extent than the island of Great Britain, and only a third less than all France. All this region is, by the voluntary action of the loyal people—who have been taught wisdom by suffering—devoting to liberty; and it will quickly be sought out by freemen from Europe, who will make homes and independence in this pleasant and fertile country for themselves and their families.—New York Evening Post.

"DABBLING IN STOCKS."—Such was the expression first applied to dealers in mining "stock" in San Francisco, and such was the term applied to persons on our streets yesterday, negotiating "feet" and "shares." The "bulls" and the "bears" of Wall street are fast appearing in our midst, and soon the "stock brokers" will flourish or fail as rapidly as their stock rises and falls. The following advice was given to verdant stock operators by a late distinguished State officer in California. It was written in answer to a letter from Sacramento, asking his advice as to the propriety of selling, say ten feet of Baltic stock:

> SAN FRANCISCO, February 20, 1864.
> My Dear B.:—I knew there was no hurry in answering your note; I knew you did not expect my advice when you asked it; I knew you would not follow my advice if I gave it; and I knew I would not advise if I thought you would follow it.
> If I was in your place and thought the Baltic was going up, I would hold on; if I thought it was going down I would sell. As a general rule in stock operations, buy at the lowest price and sell at the highest: get all you can and keep the money.
> I have sold my Baltic and am sorry for it. I have plenty of other stocks on hand, for which I am also sorry. These two sequences may produce a consequence, but I don't see it. I think the Baltic is a good mine if it only pays dividends. There are two kinds of mines—those that pay dividends and those that require assessments. The dividend-paying mines are generally considered the most desirable to hold. This is perhaps owing to a generally received impression that it is not better to give than to receive, and a feeling that prevails that too much Dr. (not doctor) is not a pleasant thing to have around. But to return: Ten feet of Baltic is worth say $1,700. It is higher than Burning Moscow, or Real Del Monte, or Dana, or Sheba, or Wide West. It is not quite equal to Chollar. Seventeen hundred dollars is a good deal of money, and would be very comfortable to have. Ten feet of land is a very short strip, but sometimes six feet sufficeth. On the whole, I think you had better do as you please. I shall go up on Monday in order to advise you further.
> Yours in haste,

RICH SPECIMENS.—We were yesterday shown some very rich specimens of gold and silver quartz, at the Assay office of Messrs. Tracy & King, that had just arrived from the "Oro Fino" and "Morning Star" lodes, in the Owyhee district. The specimens consisted of two small kegs of rock, and although no assay has yet been made of any of it, yet it is confidently expected to yield $20,000 to the ton. Some of these were procured at the depth of fifty five feet [illegible] lode, and it is reported that the deeper [illegible] shaft is sunk the more silver there is foun[illegible] Owyhee promises to become second to [illegible] for rich strikes. A gentleman well p[illegible] in mining matters, and perfectly reliable, [illegible] us that he had seen $1,000 taken [illegible] packed upon one mule.

THE CELEB[illegible] NIGHT.—The committee of A[illegible] celebration of the comple[illegible] Telegraph, met at the Pioneer [illegible] It was agreed that the [illegible] celebrated by a torchlight [illegible] of the different [illegible] Rev. T. H. Pear[illegible] H. Williams will de[illegible] Telegraph office at [illegible] The [illegible] of march was not decid[illegible] wet and mud. It is expec[illegible] citizens generally will turn out [illegible] celebration may be as imposing as [illegible] of the occasion demand. Dispatch[illegible] received and read to the audience during the evening.

MARKET SQUARE.—Originally there were two plots of ground reserved for Market Squares. One was block 172, between Yamhill and Morrison, and Fifth and Sixth streets, on Low[illegible] addition to the city—but that was n[illegible] as such, and is now private property. The Market Square about which there is a talk of improving, is on Chapman's addition, block 132, between Market and Clay and Second and Third streets; this was deeded to the city by Mr. Chapman, and has but one fault, to make it desirable for the purposes for which it was intended, and that is, the distance from the centre of the city.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.—When the telegraph was [illegible] from San Francisco to St. Lo[illegible] dispatch received from the East a[illegible] death of Col. Baker. The first [illegible] here from San Francisco on [illegible] of the telegraph brings us the [illegible] of the sudden death of Rev. T. Starr K[illegible] Both of these men were fighting the b[illegible] of their country, and both active in supporting the government in its efforts towards suppressing the rebellion.

PROPELLER FROM VICTORIA.—A private letter from Victoria, to A. B. Richardson, Esq., of this city, dated February 25th, announces that the propeller John B. Wright would leave there for this place in a few days, loaded with goods for our market. By a little alteration so as to accommodate passengers, the Wright would be well adapted for such a trade, to run regularly.

SALT.—The bark Almy dropped down to the Salt Works yesterday, to discharge about 100 tons of Carmen Island salt, brought in bulk to Richards & McCraken. The work of hoisting was progressing at a rate that admitted of no doubt but that the bark would be ready to leave to-morrow.

BY THEIR WORKS, ETC.—We noticed hands employed in cleaning off Front street bridge, last evening, preparatory to repairing it. We are pleased to see this display of good taste, and hope it may continue in that section, for it is much needed.

BRISK OPENING.—The week opened yesterday with considerable spirit in trade. At nearly every prominent place of business parties were actively engaged filling orders, and all the draymen were kept moving. This is significant of the times.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—The United States District Court, Hon. M. P. Deady Justice, had the case of the U. S. vs. ten cases opium, Waukee, claimant, on trial yesterday. The case of Patrick J. Coulisk vs. The steamboat Pioneer, was set for trial on Friday.

COUNTY COURT.—County Court, Judge P. A. Marquam presiding, met at the Court House yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and after a short session adjourned to meet to-day at the same hour.

EIGHTY tons of freight and fifteen passengers were brought down on the Senator last evening, from Oregon City.

THE Hunt carried 130 passengers, 120 tons of freight, 30 horses, and three wagons to the Cascades yesterday.

My Dear B.—I knew there was no hurry in answering your note, I knew you did not expect my advice when you asked it. I knew you would not follow my advice if I gave it, and I knew I would not advise if I thought you would follow it.

If I was in your place and thought the Baltic was going up, I would hold on. If I thought it was going down, I would sell. As a general rule in stock operations buy at the lowest price and sell at the highest; get all you can and keep the money.

Yours in haste,

RICH SPECIMENS.—We were yesterday shown some very rich specimens of gold and silver quartz at the Assay office of Messrs. The specimens consisted of two small kegs of rock, and although no assay has yet been made of any of it, yet it is confidently expected to yield $20,000 to the ton. Some of these were procured at the depth of fifty five feet in the lode, and it is reported that the deeper the shaft is sunk the more silver there is found. Owyhee promises to be second to no camp for rich strikes. A gentleman well posted in mining matters, and perfectly reliable, informs us that he had seen $4,000 taken from rock packed upon one mule.

THE CELEBRATION TO-NIGHT.—The committee of Arrangements on the celebration of the completion of the Telegraph, met at the Pioneer Hotel last evening. It was agreed that the occasion should be celebrated by a torch light procession, and parade of the different military and fire companies. Rev. T. H. Pearne, and Judge Geo H Williams will deliver addresses in front of the Telegraph office at 8 o'clock P M. The line of march was not agreed upon, owing to the wet and mud. It is expected that the citizens generally will turn out, that the celebration may be as imposing as the importance of the occasion demand. Dispatches will be received and read to the audience during the evening.

MARKET SQUARE.—Originally there were two plats of ground reserved for Market Squares. One was block 172, between Yamhill and Morrison, and Fifth and Sixth streets, in Lownsdale's addition to the city—but that was not occupied as such, and is now private property. The Market Square about which there is a talk of improving is on Chapman's addition, block 132, between Market and Clay and Second and Third streets; this was deeded to the city by Mr. Chapman, and has but one fault, to make it desirable for the purpose for which it was intended, and that is, the distance from the centre of the city.

BRIDGE WORKS, ETC.—We noticed hands employed in cleaning off Front street bridge, and scraping, preparatory to repairing it. We are pleased to see this display of good taste and hope it may continue in that section, for it is much needed.

BRISK OPENING.—The week opened yesterday with considerable spirit in trade. At nearly every prominent place of business parties were actively engaged filling orders and all the draymen were kept moving. This is significant of the times.

U S. DISTRICT COURT.—The United States District Court, Hon. M P Deady Justice, had the case of the U S. vs ten cases opium, Wankee, claimant, on trial yesterday. The case of Patrick J. Coulisk vs The steamboat Pioneer, was set for trial on Friday.

COUNTY COURT.—County Court, Judge P. A. Marquam presiding met at the Court House yesterday morning at 10 o'clock and after a short session adjourned to meet to day at the same hour.

EIGHTY tons of freight and fifteen passengers were brought down on the Senator last evening, from Oregon City.

THE Hunt carried 130 passengers, 120 tons of freight, 36 horses, and three wagons to the Cascades yesterday.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In Recorder's Court yesterday L. McLevitt was fined $20 and costs for violent, indecent and immoral conduct and $10 for resisting the officer. [illegible] charged with being guilty of [illegible] making threats of bodily injury by [illegible] a pistol [illegible] larceny of clothing [illegible].

LOOK OUT BOYS.—Officer Knott was called upon yesterday morning by a party to make an arrest, for assault with intent to kill, etc. After vain endeavors to find the accused, the warrant was given to the accuser and he put out in search of the Marshal to have him make an effort. He found the Marshal, who also had a warrant, which called for the first party, and the upshot of the matter was that both were arrested about the same time.

PACK TRAINS.—The large number of pack trains arriving and departing every day from the interior to the mines, does not seem to deter our people from investing in the business. Mr Levi Friedenrich of Vancouver, has been purchasing horses and mules in California for packing purposes, and is expected over land with them, in a few days.

HARD TO NAVIGATE.—At three different localities in the city yesterday we observed teamsters unloading their wagons, having "run aground" at the corner of Pine and Second, Columbia and Front, and near Main on First street. They do occasionally "touch bottom."

FREIGHT WAGONS.—A large number of freight wagons are manufactured in this city, and almost every day some are shipped to the upper country. Hay & Co send four on the O. S. N. Co's boats this morning, and they turn out one a day upon the average.

LINN COUNTY has turned out a delegation for the mines, and they appeared in our streets with oxen, "packed" in regular style, headed for the river trail to the new Eldorado.

PICTURES.—Charles Barrett has received a splendid acquisition to his stock of photograph album pictures.

Members of the different Fire Companies will meet at their Engine Houses in full uniform at half past [illegible] o'clock P. M. By request of Lard in Tins.

FRESH LARD IN TINS. For sale by
RICHARDS & McCRAKEN

The Long Night.

BY FREDERICK WARD SAUNDERS.

(Concluded.)

"It was quite late when Sandy came up from the ship [illegible], but my grandfather was on hand for him, and opened his batteries at once. As friendly as he had been to the poor little Scotchman before, it was nothing for the real love and affection he entertained for him at that moment; he shook hands with him half a score of times, and almost shed tears to think the next morning would separate them. Sandy was clearly overcome, for he had taken quite a liking for my grandfather, so they agreed to make a night of it as it was to be the last.

"My grandfather's idea was to get Sandy with rather more whisky aboard than he could well manage. But these Scotchmen can carry off a wonderful quantity, especially when they don't have to pay for it themselves; and he found it so, for by the time Sandy was reduced to the proper state, he began to feel a little quarish himself. But that didn't much matter, for Sandy was in a worse condition, picking up what seemed to be half a dozen candlesticks at once, and in company with score of Sandy's at the very lowest calculation, they went up into their room and turned into a couple of about as skittish beds as you'll find in a country tavern. My grandfather owned that it was at least fifteen minutes before he could catch and calm down his bed sufficiently to get into it.

"It didn't take long for my grandfather to sleep off the effects of what he had aboard, for he was a veteran in the service, and had been through no end of just such campaigns before but it was only an occasional affair with the Scotchman and he lay as quiet and stupid as a wet Sunday.

"Having stretched himself, yawned and made the usual amount of waking noise, my grandfather proceeded to make the Scotchman fast, tying his hands and feet to the corresponding bed-posts as he lay, then with a silk handkerchief bound over his mouth, he had him safely bound to the bedstead."

"As Sandy didn't wake, my grandfather turned in for another snooze. In common with most sailors he was a hard sleeper, and kept it up, how long he could not tell, but he woke with the firm conviction that he had overslept himself. Still it was dark as ever outside, at least no light came in at the window. The lamp, however, had burned very low. Thinking that morning could not be very far off, he turned his face to the wall and went off into another doze.

"When he woke the next time the lamp had burned itself out, and the half extinguished wick was offering up a cloud of incense to the memory of the departed whales that had thus far supplied it with oil. He now began to be rather nervous, and would have gone down into the bar and passed the rest of the night, but he didn't care to be seen about the house at unreasonable hours, lest suspicion should rest on him as to the disappearance of Sandy, whose absence would occasion inquiry in the morning. So he amused himself as best he might by whistling and lecturing the poor Scotchman, who seemed to be in no quiet frame of mind, to be judge, from the way he bounced about on the bed, as the cords [illegible] his hands and feet. As the handkerchief prevented the talking, my grandfather had all the conversation to himself, which he improved by giving Sandy a long talk on the meanness of trying to supplant a man in his business situation. But my grandfather, although he liked to hear himself talk, at last became weary, even with such an attentive listener as Sandy. He thought to strike a light [illegible] himself, but after pawing about in the dark for a long time in search of his clothes, he remembered that both Sandy and himself had turned in with their clothes on. He tried to walk the room, but after walking two or three times he ran against and fell over upon the bed. There was nothing to get up for so he lay ruminating upon all the long and disagreeable nights he had ever passed, but could think of none to equal this. Again he fell into a troubled sleep, and dreamed he was shut up in a huge bomb-shell, which was about to be fired from a mortar. With an exclamation of horror, he awoke and sprang to his feet. The darkness was intense; he could endure it no longer—he would at least open the window and look out on the night.

"Groping his way slowly along the wall, he came to a window. What there was [illegible] wooden shutter—the truth dawned upon him. With a frantic blow of his fist, he dashed the shutter open and a flood of light poured in, [illegible] while in the western heavens the sun was slowly sinking towards its setting. He looked anxiously towards the harbor; the ship was not in sight. With direful imprecations on the head of the unfortunate chambermaid, he cut with one stroke of his knife the cords which bound the hands of poor Sandy, and rushed to the barroom; at the door he was met by the owner's head clerk.

"For heaven's sake, Mr Brady, began that functionary, can you tell me what has become of the Scotchman? The ship can't go to sea without some one.

"[illegible] orders to send the first one of you on board that I can find, the Scotchman if possible, if not, you.

"My grandfather stopped to hear no more, but sprang for the street, closely followed by Sandy, who had arrived just in time to hear the last sentence. The distance to the pier whence they would have to take a boat to the ship, then lying in the stream with her sails loosed, and anchor hove short, was about a quarter of a mile. Down the street they tore with frantic haste; the one who reached the ship first was to be mate. For a good part of the distance the race was neck and neck; my grandfather had the greater stride, but the Scotchman picked up his feet the quickest. As they neared the wharf, Sandy began to fall behind. [illegible] at the stairs. Each man put forth his utmost strength to reach it first, but my grandfather was in advance. Springing into the boat, he yelled to the amazed boatman.

"Shove off, ye devil! Shove off!"

"Hold on! hold on!" sobbed Sandy, as he rushed down the pier. "Five pounds if you take me to the ship first!"

"Shove off! or I'll make a widder of your wife before you are three ticks older!" roared my grandfather, seizing an oar and shoving just so far into the stream that Sandy, as he reached the end of the pier and jumped, missed the boat and plunged into the water. You may be sure there was no time lost in pulling on board and getting the ship to sea.

"My grandfather was in luck after that, for somehow the cargo never fell short from that time; which so pleased the owners that they continued him in his berth until he was made captain, while Sandy was provided with a situation in another vessel. Sandy never held any hardness toward my grandfather on account of the trick he played him, and years after it was a joke between them, nor was either weary of telling the story of THE LONG NIGHT."

A strutting coxcomb asked a barber's boy "Did you ever shave a monkey?"

"No, sir; but if you'll be pleased to sit down, I'll try."

"ROUGH GAMBLING."—Says the Territorial Enterprise of Virginia City, N. T.:

"What is your business, sir?" asked a Judge in one of our Courts of a witness.

"Rough gambling, yer Honor," was the ready reply.

We looked sharply at the man who claimed so singular a trade. A pair of small black eyes, scarcely bigger than peas, twinkled under a pair of heavy, black eyebrows, each of which appeared to project straight in the direction to which the eyes underneath were directed. A heavy, black, sailor-like, beard encircled his chin and covered his cheeks. The mouth was the only redeeming feature. There rested a sort of rude, defiant frankness. He swung back and forth against his legs a dilapidated Peruvian hat.

"What business, did I understand you to say, sir?" asked the Judge, his eyes expressing some surprise.

"Rough gambling, yer Honor," answered the witness, turning a quid of tobacco in his left cheek and gently swinging his hat.

"Rough gambling?" repeated the Judge—"I would ask you, sir, what you mean by 'rough gambling?'"

"I means, yer Honor, that my style is, where the run of the cards doesn't fetch me a feller's money, I knocks him down and takes it anyhow."

OLD ABE AND THE PHILOSOPHY OF CURRENTS.—During a conversation which took place last week between our worthy President and a distinguished Western Senator, the recent legislative nominations for the next Presidency were incidentally referred to. "Yes," said Lincoln, nursing his leg with evident gratification—"yes, Senator, the current seems to be setting all one way." "It does really seem to be setting all one way," was the answer of the Senator; "but, Lincoln, as you have told me several good stories since I have been here, permit me, if you please to tell you one: It has always been observed that the Atlantic Ocean, at the Straits of Gibraltar constantly pours into the Mediterranean with tremendous volume. The Bosphorus empties into it at its other end, and rivers are seen contributing to its waters all along its coast. It was for many years the constant puzzle of geographers why the Mediterranean, under all these accessions, never got full and overran its banks. After a while, however, a curious fellow took the notion of dropping a plummet in the center of the Straits, when he discovered that, though the tremendous body of water on the surface was rushing inward from the ocean, a still more powerful body was passing outward in a counter current at some twenty feet below." "Oh, Ah!" said Old Abe, seriously, evidently nonplussed for the first time in his life; "that does not remind me of any story I never heard before." —Wilkes' Spirit, January 28th.

The Catskill Recorder relates the following: "A few days since, we heard a little, three-year-old speculating in gleeful anticipations of Christmas, but a slight shadow momentarily darkened her little brow as she thoughtfully propounded the inquiry, Mamma, mebbe Santa Claus was drafted? A negative assurance, however, soon dispelled the cloud, and the pirouette of little white curls joyfully progressed."

WELL KNIT.—"Ma," said a five year old young lady to her mother, the other day, "do they make men the same as they do stockings?" "How absurd, you are Jane—of course not. What makes you say this morning ma, that Major Spanker was a remarkably well knit man?"

HELMBOLD'S Genuine Preparation.

"HIGHLY CONCENTRATED"

Compound Fluid

EXTRACT BUCHU,

A POSITIVE AND SPECIFIC REMEDY

FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS, GRAVEL

AND

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS.

This Medicine increases the power of DIGESTION and excites the ABSORBENTS into healthy action, by which the WATERY or CALCEROUS depositions, and all UNNATURAL ENLARGEMENTS are reduced, as well as PAIN and INFLAMMATION, and is good for MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Indisposition to Exertion,	Loss of Power,
Loss of Memory,	Difficulty of Breathing,
Weak Nerves,	Trembling,
Horror of Disease,	Wakefulness,
Dimness of Vision,	Pain in the Back,
Universal Lassitude of the	Muscular System,
Hot Hands,	Flushing of the Body,
Dryness of the Skin,	Eruptions on the Face,
	Pallid Countenance.

These symptoms if allowed to go, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows

Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits,

IN ONE OF WHICH THE PATIENT MAY EXPIRE.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,"

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS.

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

THE CONSTITUTION,

once affected by Organic Weakness,

Requires the Aid of Medicine, to strengthen and invigorate the system, which invariably does.

A Trial will Convince the most Skeptical

FEMALES! FEMALES!! FEMALES!

DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE

No Family Should be Without It.

TAKE NO MORE BALSAM, MERCURY, OR UNPLEASANT MEDICINE FOR UNPLEASANT AND DANGEROUS DISEASES.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU,

AND

HELMBOLD'S IMPROVED ROSE WASH

CURES SECRET DISEASES,

In all their Stages; at little Expense; Little or no Change in Diet, No inconvenience,

AND NO EXPOSURE.

It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, Preventing and curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation, so frequent in the class of Diseases, and expelling all Poisonous, diseased and worn out matter.

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

Who have been the victims of Quacks,

and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they were deceived, and that the "POISON" has, by the use of "Powerful Astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after marriage.

Use Helmbold's Extract Buchu

For all Affections and Diseases of the URINARY ORGANS, whether existing in MALE OR FEMALE, from whatever cause originating, and

NO MATTER OF HOW LONG STANDING.

Diseases of these Organs require the aid of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

IS THE GREAT DIURETIC,

And it is certain to have the desired effect in all Diseases for which it is recommended.

Evidence of the most Reliable and Responsible character will accompany the medicines.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints.

EBEN KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

[illegible], Miss., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. [illegible] can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. [illegible], of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours, with gratitude and regard, ORLANDO SHELBY, of [illegible]

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
